FIRE APPARATUS ON EAST SIDE TO BE MAYOR'S DEMAND

Condition of Bridge, Which Might Collapse, Urged in Favor of Plan.

MOVE PART OF IT OVER

Executive Will Present Matter to Council, He Indicates, After Conference With Public Safety Head and Fire Chief on Location for It.

Mayor Charles C. Mitchell has ounded a warning note concerning he big risk City Council is taking in eeping all the fire fighting apparatus n the West Side while the Youghioheny river bridge is in a condemned ondition. The executive today voiced his opinion that at least part of he equipment should be located in he center of the city at once to be vailable in case of an emergency.

The bridge question is a serious ne, Mr. Mitchell said, and pointed ut that in his mind the city would be irectly responsible for any damage one in case the bridge should give ay at a time when the apparatus was eeded on the East Side and the fire ucks could not cross the river.

Mr. Mitchell said he had intended o bring the matter before Council at s meeting last Monday evening but hat because of the trend of affairs at hat time t slipped his memory. He aid he intended to confer at once ith Councilman J. A. Cypher, director of the department of public safety, nd Fire Chief William E. DeBolt ith a view to locating a portion of e apparatus in the business section.

If the bridge should give way, there no nearer crossing than Dawson. would be possible for the trucks to o to that place and cross over if ich an accident should occur at any me but in case of a fire in connecon with the collapse of the strucre it would mean a serious delay at would probably result in a big ss.

"The commissioners have given the est Penn Railways Company notice at the bridge is unsafe," the mayor aid, "in order to relieve themselves any responsibility, and I believe art of that fire equipment should be ept on the East Side of the river to eep the city free from damage suits."

Recently a group was discussing e same questions and a member of e fire department vouched that if e necessity demanded it he believed he could drive one of the machines cross the Pennsylvania railroad idge without great difficulty, the es on it being placed so closely together.

The matter of bringing a part of the paratus to the East Side brought o the question of a location for it d in the course of conversation the ed for a central fire station was oiced. The mayor said he thought ch a station was necessary but ould not see how it was obtainable ow as the matter rested with the x-payers entirely and the money as not to be had.

Speaking of the disadvantages of aving the equipment on the West de he said that it was a double menre to the protection of the city now, at because of possible hold-ups at e tracks of the Pennsylvania raiload company in West Crawford avee and second on account of the unfe bridge.

The location of a temporary quarrs for the machine and its driver as talked of but a suitable place may hard to ind. Three or four possible locations were suggested. It is ecessary to have one from which the uck can be quickly gotten out.

The argument that all the equipent should be placed in a central ation was advanced by one person d another said that would not give oper protection to the West Side. he answer to this statement was just at the East Side had been in the me situation for the past six years.

The mayor also suggested that now ould be a good time to inspect the ater plugs for frozen ones.

RETIRED EMPLOYES AT TROTTER GUESTS OF COMMUNITY BODY

Fifteen to Whom Invitations Are Extended and Their Wives Attend Function.

The Trotter Community Association Thursday night held a reception and entertainment in honor of the retired employes. Invitations were issued to Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Tormay, Eugene O'Donovan, Mr. and Mrs. James Mulvehill, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stark, Mr. and Mrs. P. Mullan, Mr. and Mrs. P. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Labiak, Mr. and Mrs. J. Konkolewski, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Goglin, John Detree, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Costello, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Cortriglia, Martin Chess, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Monoskey, John Irwin, Mrs. Thomas Doyle, Mrs. Joseph Bloom, Mrs. John Popcin and Mr. and Mrs. James McMahon.

Fifteen retired employes, with their wives responded to the invitation and braved the coldest night of the year and enjoyed an evening's visit with their friends and associates. About a hundred and fifty club members and friends gathered to do honor to the invited guests. The evening was spent in song, readings, cards and dancing, not to mention jigs and reels and was thoroughly enjoyed by all. Retired employes vied with each other in doing fancy steps and set a most worthy example to some of the younger, more bashful boys. The program was informal.

Miss Florence Erbeck entertained with readings and R. L. Werner sang several solos. The orchestra consisted of Miss Kate McGrogan, Eddie Frazier and Edgar Therasse. Mr. Therasse and Richard Boyd rendered a violin duet. A lunch was served by the ladies of Trotter, the invited guests being seated at a table decorated with roses and narcissus.

Benton Boyd acted as master of ceremonies and immediately after the luncheon called upon the guests and introduced them and all were given a happy greeting. Mr. Tormay responded in behalf of the guests and gave many reminiscences of former days. At the close of these exercises Peter Duffy, in behalf of the Trotter Community Association, extended an invitation to the retired employes to come into the association as its guests at any time and to enjoy its activities. The committee in charge was made up of James Burns, Frank Mullin, Albert Smitkey, R. L. Werner and Andrew Miller.

The boy testified that his father threatened to whip him if he did not tell the police that he, Albert, had shot his mother. The boy did tell the story but later admitted the untruth.

Republican House Will Pass Bonus, Fordney Declares

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—The soldier bonus bill will be reported to a Republican caucus within the next 10 days "and a Republican House will pass it," Chairman Fordney of the Ways and Means Committee declared in the House today during a discussion over the manner of its framing.

The House was thrown into an uproar during discussion of the measure after Representative Garner of Texas, the ranking Democrat on the committee, had protested against the action of the Republican members in calling in a representative of The American Legion to advise with them at a secret session from which Democrats were excluded.

"The Republican members of the Ways and Means Committee have not thought it proper to call in men unalterably opposed to the bonus for a discussion of that bill," the chairman declared. "We had before us today an officer of the Legion so we could ask him for expert information and he gave it. The bonus bill will be presented to a caucus of House Republicans in 10 days and a Republican House will pass it. The Republican caucus will either agree with what we have framed or will direct us how to fix it."

In mailing his attack Mr. Garner, without mentioning names had reference to the appearance of John Thomas Taylor of The American Legion and Richard Jones representing Veterans of the Foreign Wars who were before the committee today.

Paperhangers Present New Wage Scale Providing for 10 to 20 Per Cent Increase

Local Union No. 999, Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers, has adopted and presented to the master paperhangers of the city, a new scale of wages, to be effective one year from April 1, which calls for increases in the rates of wages and piece work ranging from 10 to 20 per cent over the scale now in force.

Under the proposed scale the minimum rate of wages for journeymen is fixed at 85 cents per hour. Piece work ranges from 20 cents to 75 cents per single bolt, according to grade of paper used. For sanitas, burlaps and similar coverings and all repair work the rate is 85 cents per hour.

Charges to customers shall not be less than $1.10 per hour for contracted day work and not less than five cents per bolt more than the scale rates for paperhanging by the piece.

Having the impression that, in view of the depression in business, a reduction of at least 10 per cent from the existing scale would be consented to, the master paperhangers are somewhat surprised at the demand for an increase. There has been an average reduction of 40 per cent in the price of wall paper, as compared with a year ago, hence it was expected the employes would be willing to further assist in the general readjustment by accepting a decrease in wages. Employers say that if they are required to pay the new scale of wages there can be no reduction in the cost of paper hanging to house owners because the increase in labor costs, which is the big item in paperhanging, will more than offset the reduction in the cost of paper. It is further pointed out that the present scale, which has been in force two years, was made at a time when living costs were at least 40 per cent higher than they are now.

No meeting of the employing decorators has yet been held to consider or take action on the proposed new scale.

DEPRESSION ADDS TO WORK OF RED CROSS

MANY NEW CASES LISTED

A meeting of the executive committee of the Fayette County Chapter, American Red Cross, was held at chapter headquarters in Uniontown, Wednesday afternoon.

Reports for the last quarter, covering the months of November, December and January, were submitted to the committee, showing the work and activities of the various departments.

The Home Service Bureau showed from the reports submitted by Mrs. G. W. Buckner, secretary of the bureau, that a larger volume of work had been done than at any time since the Red Cross entered into its peace time program. Two hundred twenty-four new cases were handled during the period covered by this report, in addition to the hundreds of old cases that must continually be dealt with. This brings the total number of cases handled by this bureau to 3,759, figuring cases by families rather than by individuals. It is estimated that each case involves an average of three persons, so that over 10,000 people have been directly assisted through the Home Service Bureau. Twenty-three new compensation cases for disabled former service men have been filed by the Red Cross during the period covered by this report; One hundred sixteen now affidavits for compensation; 10 applications for soldier bonus; 11 Victory Medals received; $10,000 in government insurance reinstated; 122 unemployment cases; 11 psychiatric investigations; seven pay and allotment cases; 19 hospitalizating cases for former service men. 74 contacts made for the Federal Board.

Each month is showing an increase in the number of cases the Red Cross Home Service is called upon to handle and on account of the present business depression the amount of relief and assistance it is called upon to furnish is enormous. As an illustration of this, the Fayette County Chapter is now providing milk to the amount of $100 each month to undernourished children

A report submitted by Mrs. R. S. McKee in charge of the Connellsville office, showed a total number of 119 new cases handled during the three month period covered by this report. This brings the total number of cases handled through the Connellsville office to almost 1,100. Of the new cases handled, 71 were those of former service men and 48 civilians. 80 cases of disabled former service men having been dealt with during the three month period; 12 compensation claims filed; 36 Federal Board cases; 56 unemployment cases, including both former service men and civilians; seven insurance conversions made; six soldiers located through the Red Cross; seven Victory Medals received; five insurance reinstatements; six bonus applications from other states; two investigations for Children's Service Bureau; eight hospitalization cases for both former service men and civilians; three in lieu of discharges; three discharge investigations for soldiers; two investigations for psychiatric cases; three investigations for the United Charities; two guardianship appointments secured for weak-minded former service men in government hospitals through Mr. Schenck; questionnaires filled out, cases referred to tuberculosis sanitariums; back pay and allotments secured, and other cases dealt with. This gives a fair idea of the great variety and kind of problems the Red Cross is called upon to meet. Mrs. McKee reports that she has on an average of nine interviews daily in her office in addition to the numerous investigations made and visits to the home.

A report of the Brownsville office as submitted by Miss Virginia Hann, social worker in charge, showed that 37 new families were dealt with during the three months; 13 being former service men's cases and 24 civilian cases, making a total number of cases on file in the Brownsville office of 356, most of which are active.

A report submitted by the two Red Cross nurses, among other interesting matters, showed 677 nursing visits made; 30 infant welfare visits; 29 pre-natal visits; nine tubercular visits; eight visits to schools; 11 social service visits; 107 children treated at clinics; and 81 other visits, making a total of 955. In addition to the actual nursing service rendered, health talks were given to school children; six patients were taken to Pittsburg hospitals for special care and treatment, and a number of pa-

TWENTY-THREE BELOW ZERO AT ROARING RUN

COLD SNAP SHORT-LIVED

According to the forecast of the weather man today the cold spell which has gripped this section for the past two days has ended. The thermometer also recorded its lowest mark, although several degrees above some of the records reported by various residents at their homes.

The official minimum temperature in this city was five degrees above zero. Other figures ranged anywhere from that degree to four and five below zero. At Scottdale, it is said, eight degrees below was recorded.

Roaring Run, in the Indian Creek valley, again comes across with the record, 23 below zero.

At Davistown the report was 12 below at 6 o'clock and nine below at 8 o'clock. At Donegal, about six miles above Davistown, a temperature of 19 degrees below was reported.

Scottdale Murder Trial Begins in Greensburg Court

GREENSBURG, Feb. 17. The trial of George Jerko and Joseph Mickey, both of Scottdale, charged with the murder of Charles Lubiniecki on December 30, 1921, when he was returning to his home in Scottdale from his meat shop at Swedetown, was begun, about 11 o'clock in the Westmoreland county court here this morning.

Up to the close of the court last night seven jurors had been selected and the remainder were empaneled this morning. The first witness was called about 11 o'clock. Up to noon two persons, James S. Harkins of Mount Pleasant, the county coroner, and Fred Crothers, an engineer, had testified. A man by the name of Anderson, who happened by the scene of the shooting at the time, was the third witness called. No unusual testimony had been given up to that time.

The case is being heard before Judge William T. Doty, Jr. One of the unusual features of the trial is the large number of attorneys engaged. There are four for the defendants and three for the commonwealth. The prosecuting attorneys are John Kennedy of Pittsburg and Curtis H. Gregg and John M. Horne, both of Greensburg. The defendants are represented by Attorneys B. F. Falk and J. R. Smith of Scottdale and George E. Baron and P. K. Shaner of Greensburg.

The two men are charged with having shot Lubiniecki when they attempted to hold him up near the factory of the United States Casket Company at Scottdale.

INSPECT POST OFFICE

Number of Recommendations for Improvement Are Made.

Inspectors William K. Halliday, R. A. L. Blake and G. F. Baurkens have completed the annual inspection of the Connellsville post office. They recommended certain improvements and changes in the construction to enable the local force to maintain their efficient standing. The office is doing a much larger business from the same distributing case that was installed at the time the office was built and when the work was much lighter. The inspectors have recommended that a three-party case be purchased and installed to take care of the increase. They have also recommended that the office be furnished with an additional safe to give further protection to registered mail, and that an appropriation be granted for the re-arranging of the carriers cases so as to enable them to distribute their mail by natural light instead of by electricity as is the case at the present.

HUNDREDS GATHER FOR LAST TRIBUTE TO JAMES CHARLESWORTH

Assemblage in First Christian Church for Dead Organist Largest There in Many Years.

The largest gathering in many years and what was said by some to have been the largest funeral assembly within memory there thronged the First Christian Church Thursday afternoon for the funeral of James Charlesworth, the church choir director and organist. It became necessary to throw open the Sunday school room and this was almost filled while a number stood in the rear of the church auditorium. There have been many funeral sermons delivered in the church but none, it is said, surpassed in eloquence of the tribute paid to the dead by the pastor, Rev. George Walker Buckner, who was assisted in the service by his son, Rev. C. C. Buckner of Fairbury, Neb., who is conducting evangelistic services here. Righteousness, rugged honesty and service summed up the life of Mr. Charlseworth, the minister said in his sermon, painting in glowing words the worth of the man to the church and the community. Members of the West Penn Quartet, made up of William Griffiths, William Thomas, R. R. Roberts and Herbert Pratt, and the church choir sang. Mr. Charlesworth was the organizer and director of the quartet. The organ, at which he presided for six years, was closed during the service and the console banked with flowers. Mrs. J. Montgomery Dilworth was at the piano, which also was banked with flowers. The floral remembrances were of unusual beauty.

The body of the late musician rests on an elevation in Hill Grove Cemetery not far from and overlooking the family home in Pearl street. Jesse Barnes, Peter R. Weimer and J. B. Henderson of Connellsville; John R. Jones, Dunbar; John D. Morgan, Dawson, and William Brownlee, Dunbar, were the pallbearers.

Among the persons attending the funeral were: Mrs. Anna Dale, Mrs. Edith Gater and Miss Gladys Yoxall Dale, Allenport, Washington county; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Jackson and daughter, Margaret, and grandson, Thomas Jackson, Pittsburg; Mrs. Percy Sylvester, Parkersburg, W. Va.; Thomas Harris and Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Wyatt, Brownsville; Dr. and Mrs. S. A. Baltz and son, Austin, and Mrs. E. B. Ritenour, Uniontown; Mr. and Mrs. John D. Morgan, Dawson; Mr. and Mrs John R. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. William Brownlee and children, Beatrice and William, and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Pratt, Dunbar, and Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Roberts, W. A. Cosgrove and William Knight, Vanderbilt, and Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Charlesworth of Pittsburg.

Man Run Down by Train on Bridge, Killed Instantly

Either struck by a Baltimore & Ohio passenger train while crossing the bridge at Greene Junction, just east of here, or jumping from the trestle to escape it, Adreas Amatuzio, 29 years old, of Dunbar was instantly killed when his neck was broken in the fall to the West Penn tracks 20 feet below. An arm and leg also were broken.

The young man, together with four others, had been to the Baltimore & Ohio railroad yards seeking employment. Three of them went on to Connellsville while the victim and a companion started back to Dunbar. A passenger train suddenly rounded a curve and started across the structure on which the pair were walking. Both ran to escape it and Amatuzio's companion was successful. The unfortunate Italian, however, was not so speedy and was either struck by the locomotive or jumped to escape it.

The body was carried into the West Penn power station and later removed to Dunbar by Funeral Director J. T. Buraans of that place.

The young man had a war record. He came to this country only a year ago and previous to that time had fought in the Italian army for seven years. Four years of that time was with the forces fighting against the Austrians and the other three he was engaged against the Turks.

ANTI-LYNCHING BILL FACES FILIBUSTER IN THE SENATE

Southern Democrats Bitterly Opposed to Measure Levying Federal Fines.

REVIVES WAR BITTERNESS

Believed Its Enactment Would Make Race Feeling More Acute and Would Result in More Lynchings Instead Of Preventing Them in the South.

By Mark Sullivan

National Political Correspondent of The Courier and the New York Post.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17—So much feeling has developed over the Dyer bill, which makes lynching a crime against the federal government, and calls upon the federal courts to punish it by imposing a fine of $10,000 on the county in which a lynching occurs, that the Democratic Senators will not hesitate to filibuster against its passage.

The bill passed the House by a vote of about two to one. The bill is now in the Judiciary Committee of the Senate. It may be doubted whether it will ever appear on the floor of the Senate. If it does appear, it may even more safely be doubted that it will pass, or even come to a vote.

The bill has revived feelings that have been dormant in Congress for thirty years or more. The Democrats regard it as of the same nature as the "force" bills, fathered by Senator Lodge and others a generation ago, which provided for the presence of federal soldiers at elections in the southern states, to compel those states to permit the negro to vote. It was thought the spirit behind these measures had been universally recognized as a mistake. That spirit was a survival of the bitterness of the Civil War. For a generation the more enlightened theory has been that the race problem, which is a sad and difficult one under any circumstances, can be best handled by the gradual growth of restraint and wisdom in communities where it exits. That it is not helped, but on the contrary is made more acute and painful by efforts to interfere from the outside, especially when the interference is accompanied by force, is accepted as the lesson of experience.

Every person who opposes the Dyer bill deplores lynching, of course Lynching has already been under process of cure in the south by the natural growth of public opinion against it. It is in the north, in Chicago, Washington, and East St. Louis, that the worst race riots of recent years have occurred. Those who are most familiar with southern conditions say the Dyer bill would result, not in fewer lynchings, but in more. If the state of local feeling is such that the local county and state officials cannot prevent or punish a lynching, the interference of the federal courts would merely make that feeling more acute.

The fine of $10,000 on the county in which a lynching occurs, or on a county through which a mob passes on its way to a lynching, would not be practicable to collect. All the federal marshals could do would be to seize the county court house, or the local Confederate monument, and put it up at auction; and nobody would risk the unpopularity involved in becoming the purchaser.

All these argument against the Dyer bill seem strongly convincing. They do not come from Democrats alone. Among the speeches made against the bill in the House, three of the best were made by Republicans who came from Maine, Pennsylvania, and Nebraska, respectively.

Aside from sectional feeling, several opponents of the Dyer bill characterize it as an extreme invasion of the federal government in a field where the state has always had completely to itself the administration of local justice.

GIRLS! USE LEMONS TO WHITEN HANDS

Press the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, which any drug store will supply for a few cents. Shake well and you have a quarter pint of harmless and delightful lemon bleach to soften, whiten and whiten rough or chapped hands. Famous stage beauties use it to bleach and bring that soft, clear, rosy-white complexion because it doesn't irritate.—Advertisement.

FRIDAY EVENING, FEB. 17, 1922.

OUR ORGANIZED MILITARY FORCES.

Outside of Army and National Guard circles comparatively little has been heard concerning the reorganization of the military forces of the United States which has been proceeding quietly but effectively since shortly after the signing of the Armistice.

There being a pronounced aversion on part of the public to maintaining a large standing army, and the proposal to adopt compulsory military training for young men having been disapproved, it has become necessary to organize for the public defense along new lines.

The plan authorized by Congress, and now being developed, provides that the Army of the United States shall consist of three components. These are the Regular Army, the National Guard and the Reserves. For the purpose of organization, training and administration, the United States has been divided into three corps areas, in each of which there is located one Regular, two National Guard and one Reserve divisions. Under this system the National Guardsmen and the Reservists become just as much a part of the Army as the Regulars, insofar as relates to being subject to the authority of the government in times of emergency.

Under the army reorganization now in progress so complete and detailed a schedule has been worked out, with respect to the number and designation of companies, regiments, brigades, divisions, corps and auxiliary troops, that in case of war or threatened invasion all that would be necessary to place armies in the field would be to fill up the skeletonized units with enlisted or drafted men. All that would be required to set the military machine in motion would be the declaration by Congress that an emergency existed and the authorization to call the army into service. All of the stress, hurry and bustle experienced during the World War in the organization and training of troops would be avoided and precious time would not be lost in making preparations.

In the development of the reorganization plan the progress has been necessarily slow. The Regular Army was first reorganized and assigned to the corps areas in accordance with the plan. Next the National Guard of the several states was reorganized on the army basis. This part of the work is by no means completed, comparatively few of the states having brought their guard to the required peace strength or recruited the full complement of units. Pennsylvania is one of the states which has met all the requirements of the government and its guard, which has been designated the 28th Division, has been federally recognized. The new status of the state troops is shown by the change in the official designation. While essentially a state organization it was known as the "National Guard of Pennsylvania." Now that it is a part of the military establishment of the United States it has become the Pennsylvania National Guard, which means that it is no longer an independent unit but forms that part of the United States National Guard which is stationed in the state of Pennsylvania.

With the reorganization of the National Guard well under way steps are now being taken to organize the third component of the Army, the Reserves. This body consists of officers who, after the signing of the Armistice, were given the privilege of entering the Reserves and being placed on the inactive list, or resigning their commissions. Since the war the Reserve Officers Training Corps has been continued at a large number of colleges where military training is required of students. Young men who complete this course and are graduated are commissioned second lieutenants in the Reserve Officers Corps.

Grouping these officers into the organized Reserve is now being done. The headquarters of the 99th Division, which will comprise the Reserves of the Third Army Corps, has been located in Pittsburg. Reserve officers located in the territory west of the Susquehanna river will be assigned to the units of this division and be subject to call for duty whenever an emergency arises.

It will thus be seen that although the standing army is a comparatively small body the United States has the nucleus of a large army already organized and trained and the machinery in operation for augmenting its strength whenever necessary and without the confusion, delay and mistakes incident to a hurried call of men to arms.

tients taken to local hospitals, and in the Connellsville district Miss Harper, the Red Cross nurse in conjunction with Miss Allen, the state nurse, weighed and measured 910 school children.

W. F. Schenck, executive secretary, showed in his report to the executive committee that in addition to home service and nursing activities, the chapter was active along other lines. Plans are being formulated for a more complete disaster relief organization, and information will be compiled and put in the hands of all members of the committee as well as industrial concerns, coal plants and the like, concerning available supplies, equipment, nurses, doctors, etc. in case of disaster.

A report of the first aid work showed approximately 100 men enrolled in Red Cross First Aid classes in the county. The majority of these men are taking advanced courses and will be entitled upon completion of their course to the Red Cross First Aid Medal or Bar.

The matter of renewed chapter production was also brought to the attention of the committee as the chapter has just been called upon to assist in the furnishing of wash cloths and sweaters to the 26,000 disabled former service men in government hospitals.

The Junior Red Cross has recently become an active part of the Fayette County Chapter, over a hundred schools and rooms having enrolled within the last few weeks. The chapter is furnishing several traveling libraries to be used among rural schools, and the children have become interested in various phases of junior activities.

Health exhibits are also being planned for various parts of the county. These displays will be shown in store windows and consist of attractive posters and pamphlets put out by the State Department of Health, the Anti-Tuberculosis League, the Red Cross and other organizations. The chapter feels these displays will prove both educational and instructive, the plan being to distribute the pamphlets to all persons interested.

PARIS APPROVES TAILORED SUITS

Outfit Retains Its Simplicity, but Has Lost Severity, Authority Asserts.

COLOR IS BECOMING FACTOR

The smartly dressed Parisienne is faithful to her recent love—the tailored suit, declares a Paris correspondent of the New York Tribune. Last spring there was an amazing vogue for the mannish tailored suit. It was astonishing to see this type of dress become such a craze with French women, for they never have been advocates of the severe outdoor costume beloved by the women of England and America. So great was the craze for the gray tailored suit in Paris last spring that it became almost a uniform.

Striped Beige and Brown Woolen.

Now a new element has entered into the suit—a feminine element—and while the suit retains its simplicity it has lost its severity. Jackets have become vague in outline and with true coquetry the Parisienne often wears a picturesque veil-trimmed hat with these tailored suits.

Russian blouse styles are very successful. There is a youthfulness to suits having this outline that no woman can afford to overlook unless she be very young indeed.

Basques With Russian Blouse Suits.

Jenny, always noted for her youthful models, is having remarkable success with her Russian blouse suits trimmed with fur and worn with tunic blouses of matching color which are long enough to show below the bottom of the jackets. One of her best models, strangely enough, has an American name—Boston. This suit has been having an enormous success in Paris because of its becomingness of outline and its smart and interesting details.

What appears to be a band of embroidery around the skirt is really the edge of the tunic blouse. This blouse is such a usable model not only when worn with this suit—which, minus the fur, will make one of the best designs for the spring season—but as a separate blouse.

One of Jean Patou's best liked Russian blouse styles is in his new color, a soft sage green. This maker's preference for green is so marked that he is using lamb's wool dyed in this shade as a trimming for many of his smartest Russian blouse suits.

Velours Model of Indefinite Outline.

Color is becoming a factor with various clever dressmakers as a means of setting their own particular seal on their models. The Madeleine blue, affected by Madeleine et Madeleine in the autumn, has become widely known. These makers have announced their intention of bringing out a new shade each season and giving it prominence throughout their line.

For the mid-season they are featuring a suit, known as Certainement, developed in this shade of blue broadcloth. It is trimmed with gray Australian opossum fur, the fur forming not only the big collar and cuffs but wide, floating panels at the sides of the jacket.

Cheruit makes a beautiful model in brown velours de laine with a loose jacket having the indefinite outline so greatly desired in tailored suits showing the latest developments in fashion. The coat is cut several inches shorter in the front than at the back or the sides. The skirt also shows the lift or front drapery so characteristic of Cheruit's new models.

With this suit is worn a Lanvin hat which is often seen at afternoon teas. It is of marron colored crepe Morocain trimmed with rose-colored taffeta flowers and an embroidered tulle veil.

Girdles That Harmonize With Cloths.

Striped woolens in beige and brown are used by Cheruit with great success for the development of tailored suits. One of her best numbers has a straight little coat with the shawl collar draped so as to form a hood. Another new feature is the large and unique braid ornaments which trim the front of the jacket. The skirt is straight and laps half way around the figure, closing at the left side.

With the suit is one of Madame Georgette's newest quill-trimmed toques. There is just now a big craze for toques fairly bristling with small wings and feathers.

The well-dressed woman is giving more and more time to the selection of her hats. She spends as much time in choosing her hat or her handbag as she does in buying her costume.

Many of the new spring suits will have metal or composition girdles designed to match the cloth from which they are made. This will be especially true of the suits of the new Rodier fabrics, the girdles harmonizing with the patterns and the colorings in the cloth. This is a very new idea and one which will be extensively featured in spring models.

The Model Named Boston.

An amazing number of wide-skirted dresses have made their appearance in the last few weeks. Earlier in the season this type of dress was seen to a considerable extent, but it did not play a major role, as it does now. So rapid has been its growth that it seems as though a changed silhouette had sprung up overnight.

The theater always has a great bearing on dress. The clothes seen on the stage reflect the mode and have a greater influence on costume than the casual observer realizes. Both the Paris and American stages are now featuring the full-skirted dress, and it is to these sources that we may attribute its renaissance.

Designers permit great latitude in the outline of these bouffant skirts, and it is interesting to observe the different versions and interpretations of this mode. It makes little difference whether the hoop or extended portion of the skirt be at the hem line, at the half way mark or at the hips. Each dressmaker has a slightly different interpretation.

Deep Pointed Scallops.

A typical version is a model with deep pointed scallops at the hem. The points sweep the ground, while the cut-away portion is so extreme that a short effect is ingeniously produced. This frock is seen on the American stage developed in rose-colored taffeta. The tight-fitting bodice, which is sleeveless, is cut in scalloped form at the waist line and is topped by a bertha which serves in place of sleeves. Garlands in rose silk and gold cloth peep from beneath the bodice and trail down one side of the dress.

Many are the fabrics that lend themselves to hooped styles. Taffeta and faille are always in vogue when the full silhouette is exploited. Metal laces and nets are used singly or in combination over foundation skirts of silver cloth.

Ribbons add immeasurably to the attractiveness of the full-skirted model. A frock worn by a noted French actress in a recent continental production consists of a silver cloth foundation, the skirt of which is entirely covered with silver ribbon loops, while the bodice is resplendent with steel beads.

Gain in Production Was Less Than Firming in the Market And Oven List Would Indicate

COAL SHIPMENTS LARGER

Increase Last Week Having Been Approximately 10 Per Cent; Strike of Miners Regarded as Inevitable; Means More Orders for Raw Coal.

From The Weekly Courier

While coke production made a gain last week it was not such as in normal times would have been expected in view of the stiffening in the market But these are not normal times and the firming in the market was less the result of an increase in general demand than it was due to other conditions.

There is still a very pronounced disposition on part of the coke producers to hold aloof from the market in order to be foot loose in case the threatened coal miners strike or events leading up to it, will bring about a situation resulting in a larger demand for raw coal at prices insuring a better return than the conversion of the coal into coke In aggregate volume there is comparatively little increase in demand for furnace coke but it is coming from different sources The furnaces are not increasing their requisitions but buyers for miscellaneous consumption are becoming more plentiful There is more inquiry as well as more buying of foundry coke which under present operating conditions of mid-week lay-off days enables plants to supply more 72-hour coke than some of them could do if obliged to run the full time schedule in order to supply 48-hour grade

Already a number of coke makers have entered the coal market with the result that coal shipments are steadily increasing Last week the movement over the Monongahela division of the Pennsylvania railroad alone including shipments off the Monongahela railway, reached 8 329 cars, an increase of almost 10 per cent over the shipments during the preceding week Shipments over the Baltimore & Ohio showed approximately the same rate of gain. Movement this week indicates a continuing increase

The increase of 1,330 tons in coke production last week resulted in part from the firing up of additional ovens at merchant plants Some of the ovens did not come into production until late in the week hence did not affect the tonnage record to the extent the number of active ovens would indicate. The greater gain in production was, however, at furnace operations which added slightly to the number of ovens in running

The region is operating and will continue to operate on the assumption that the miners in the unionized districts will lay down their tools at the close of the run on March 31 Quite as confident is the expectation that the demand for a retention of the present scale will be resisted by the coal operators and that the issue to be fought out by a strike if necessary will hinge upon the acceptance of the scale posted by the operators to become effective April 1 Unless unexpected developments occur between now and March 31 a strike is regarded as inevitable and that will mean that the Connellsville coke region will meantime be looked to as a source of raw coal supply for those industries and other consumers which will be forehanded enough to stock up in anticipation of a more or less prolonged idleness of the mines in the central competitive districts

The estimated production of coke during the week ending Saturday February 11, was 91 520 tons divided between the two districts in the following proportions Connellsville 56 500, an increase of 1,440 tons, Lower Connellsville, 35,020, a decrease of 100 tons, or a net increase of 1 330 tons as compared with a decrease of 160 tons during the preceding week

By interests the production was Furnace, 58,000, a gain of 770 tons merchant, 33,520 a gain of 560 tons, as compared with a gain of 440 and a loss of 600 tons respectively during the week ended February 4

The active oven list was increased 240 by the following additions Mt Pleasant, 70 Washington Nos 1 and 2, 60; Orient, 22 Beatty fired up 90 ovens, about half of its equipment late in the week

COKE TRADE SUMMARY.

Ordinarily the production of coke would have responded by an increase to the stiffening which has taken place in the market during the past 10 days but there are conditions prevailing at this time which tend to keep production well within the present limits The operators are more disposed than ever to avoid having their mine output tied up for coke production in view of the very reasonable probabilities that a coal strike will stimulate the trade for raw coal to such an extent that that branch of the trade will be better than coke making

In the aggregate there is very little increase in the demand for coke but it is coming from new sources The furnaces are not requiring larger shipments but the miscellaneous consumers are increasing in number and more demand is coming from the foundries Under these conditions there is no necessity for boosting coke production

The coal movement is gaining headway last week shipments having increased approximately 10 per cent The rate of increase this week is not less and may be greater

Prices have firmed up to the point where coke for monthly shipments cannot be bought under $3 In fact an offer of $3 15 for a well known brand was turned down The quotable range for spot furnace is $1 90-@$3 00 spot foundry $3 75@$4 25 but it takes bids in the higher figures to secure really good coke of either grade

COLLECTS HYMN BOOKS OF ALL DENOMINATIONS

Washington Man Has Books Written in Almost Every Method Known to Man.

The proud possessor of the second largest and probably the oldest collection of ancient hymn books in the United States, Frank J Metcalf of Washington is on the threshold of realizing a life long cherished ambition—that of being the collector and owner of the greatest library of hymn books in this country.

In Metcalf's unique collection are rare and ancient hymn books from every part of the world for every known denomination and written in almost every method known to man, from the system employed ages ago of transcribing symbols and characters on parchment paper and boards down to the present styles

According to Metcalf the style of music since the first hymn was printed has changed several times in the last 200 years The first styles he said were tunes taken from the English books and very few tunes were composed by Americans before this country gained its independence

Metcalf has made a comprehensive study of American hymnology, which disclosed the fact that Charles Wesley, an Englishman ranks among the greatest hymn writers of all time having composed more than 6 000 hymns

"Probably the two oldest hymns that are most popular in the present day" said Metcalf "are 'Rock of Ages' and 'Jesus Lover of My Soul!'"

The beautiful strains and words of "Nearer My God to Thee" according to Metcalf, came into prominence and popularity in connection with the tragic death of President McKinley It was McKinley's favorite hymn when living and on his deathbed he chose it to be sung at his funeral

Perhaps the most American book of hymns in Metcalf's extensive collection is "Indian Melodies" written in 1845 by Thomas Commack a Narragansett Indian

One of the most curious of the lot in Metcalf's library is a copy of the Psalms of David published in 1818 The upper two thirds of the leaves of this book contain the words of the psalms and the lower third of the pages contains the tunes being so arranged that the chorister can select the music best suited to the words

MOTHER, when one of the children is constipated are you going to give the first laxative within reach? It is dangerous to do so. Some have been known to rupture the intestines of little children Don't be beguiled by the outside sugary appearance Look into the formula Calomel is seldom necessary, salts, minerals, coal tar, never!

Unlike these, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is admirable for children, as it is for grown people, too Mothers have been giving it to children for 30 years. They know it does not gripe, and is free from narcotics. The formula is on every package, and you can see it is vegetable, just a combination of Egyptian Senna and other laxative herbs with pepsin Use it yourself and you will find it is not necessary to take it every day, nor to increase the dose, and that it is pleasant to the taste Bottles can be had at all drug stores and the cost is only about a cent a dose Have no hesitancy giving it to a baby in arms It is absolutely safe

MOUNT PLEASANT GIRL TO BECOME A MISSIONARY

Announcement of Decision of Miss Armeade Queer Made Thursday.

WILL ENTER TRAINING

Special to The Courier.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Feb. 17.—Mrs. H. C. Morrison and Mrs. M. A. King entertained the Missionary Society of the United Brethren Church at the home of Mrs. H. C. Morrison at the annual thank-offering meeting yesterday. Thirty-eight women were present, Mr. Morrison taking those ladies who lived a distance in his car. A very nice program was carried out. Roll call was answered to by each person giving some expression of thankfulness. Mrs. Edith King Page read a history of the organization. Mrs. S. M. Loar had charge of the devotions. Prayers were offered by Miss Nancy Truxal, Mrs. C. W. Hendrickson, Mrs. H. C. Morrison, Mrs. Yothers and Mrs. George Smith. Jubilee bells were used for decorations. The thank-offering collection amounted to $75. Gold hearts were given each member on which to make the Jubilee pledge. Three new members were secured.

Announcement was made of the decision of Miss Armeade Queer of this place to become a missionary. Miss Queer will be graduated from the Mount Pleasant High School this term and will likely take advantage of the chair of missions that is being established in memory of Vera Blinn at Bonebroke Seminary. Already the Mount Pleasant Society has five members who have become jubilee members in this movement, meaning that each has given $50.

Refreshments and a social hour closed the meeting.

The birthdays of both the president, Mrs. H. C. Morrison, and the vice-president, Mrs. C. W. Hendrickson, fell on the meeting day and they were given post-card showers by the members of the society.

P. H. C. Entertained.

An entertainment was held last evening under the auspices of the degree team of the Protected Home Circle at the rooms in Moose Hall. Those who took part on the program were Mildred Paltkins, who gave a piano solo, and a play, Mrs. Deacon Spriggs, was given in which the following persons were characters: Ruth Reese, Mrs. Wetzel, Mabel Franks, Mary Vasbinder, Emma Myers, Tenna Blaine, Maude Parfitt, Elsie Long, Carrie Reese, Mrs. Lee Berg, Mrs. Lurio Miller and Jean Parfitt; duet, Genevieve and Florence Walker; duet, Mildred and Milton Patkins.

Double Header on 22nd.

Instead of one game at the armory on Washington's Birthday, Wednesday, February 22, there will be a double-header between Mount Pleasant High School and Jeannette High School and the girls from the same schools. One of the biggest crowds of the season is expected. The High School Uke Club will furnish the music.

Ministers Extend Sympathy.

The Ministers' Association, in special session Wednesday, drafted a letter of condolence to Rev. Paul Stonesifer, pastor of the Reformed Church, whose mother died at Lancaster.

SAGE TEA DARKENS HAIR TO ANY SHADE

Don't Stay Gray! Here's An Old-Time Recipe That Anybody Can Apply.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied, with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out of date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.—Advertisement.

Worn Out In Mind and Body

Your child is quick to observe disturbances in your mental attitude or physical condition. And when he asks: "What's the matter, Daddy?" there's a tone of solemn anxiety in his little voice. The depression stamped upon you reflects intensely upon him because of his profound solicitude. He at once drops his playthings and rushes to your side, but his happy smile has disappeared and his buoyant spirits are gone—replaced by a countenance of worry and a bearing of hopelessness.

You owe it to the happiness and welfare of your family to keep trim in body and keen in intellect. You are the sun and the inspiration of their lives. Dark, threatening clouds hover over their heads the instant you show signs of being "out of sorts" or "under the weather." Don't imperil their future by neglecting your health.

MORE FACILITIES OR STRANGULATION IS ALTERNATIVE

MUST QUICKLY RESUME

Construction and Equipment in Order to Avoid Further Losses Which Will Result From Periodic Car Shortages and Freight Congestion on the Roads

"One thing is absolute," declared Secretary of Commerce Hoover, when testifying before the Interstate Commerce Commission in its rate hearings. "Our transportation facilities are below the needs of our country, and unless we have a quick resumption of construction, the whole community—agricultural, commercial and industrial—will be gasping from a strangulation caused by insufficient transportation the moment that our business activities resume.

"For the past five years we have had no consequential expansion to our railway transportation machine. With but one interval of nine months in 1918 and 1919 we had a car shortage throughout the whole of the years 1916-17-18-19 and '20. The shortage rose to as high as 160,000 cars with a corresponding shortage of motive power.

"We paid tremendous sums in commercial losses and unemployment in consequence. We laid it onto the war. We should lay it onto our lack of foresight and antagonism to railroads.

"Few people seem to realize the amount of expansion in our transportation machine necessary to keep pace with the growth of the country. And an equal few seem to have any notion of the price we pay for not having it. Our country is more dependent upon railway transport than any other. All others have comparatively greater coast lines and internal waterways.

"The experience of the twenty years before the war has shown that we must build an extension of lines, including terminal facilities, additional sidings, etc., every year equal to the construction of a new railway from New York to San Francisco. We must add at least 126,000 cars and 2,500 locomotives annually to our equipment.

"Since we entered the war in 1917 we have constructed at least 10,000 miles of railways less than our industrial development called for and we are behind in rolling stock by about 4,000 locomotives and 200,000 cars.

"I wish to emphasize that unless we can have an immediate resumption of construction and equipment, our commercial community will pay treble the cost of the whole of them in their losses of a single season.

"The very moment that we reach anything like normal business we shall see a repetition of car shortages, followed by an increase in the cost of coal to the consumer from one to three dollars a ton.

"We shall again see premiums of 20 cents a bushel for the use of cars for moving grain; we shall in fact see a shortage of commodities to the consumer; and we shall see gluts upon the hands of the producers. We shall see factories filled with orders again closed for lack of cars; we shall see large intermittency in employment; and we shall see usual profiteering in commodities due to a stricture between the producer and consumer.

"There would be no difficulty whatever, by basing such losses on the experiences we have already had, to calculate a loss to the American people of a billion dollars for each one of these periodic transportation shortages.

"Furthermore, there is nothing that is so irrecoverable a loss to the nation as idle shops and idle men. Today we have both.

"There is nothing that will so quickly start the springs of business and employment as an immediate resumption of construction and equipment of the railways.

"When business does resume, we shall need all of our capacity for the production of consumable goods.

"We shall not only find it strangled for lack of transportation, but we shall find ourselves plunging into the manufacture of this very railway equipment and construction in competition with consumable goods for materials and labor. Herein lies the basic cause of destructive price inflation and booms, with all their waste and over-expansion. In times of depression, we should prepare for the future and by doing so we can cure the depression itself."

Must Pay Market Price.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals at Cincinnati, O., has affirmed the decision of the United States District Court in ruling that the government cannot fix the price of coal requisitioned by it, but must pay the market price.

Methodists Hand Baptists Awful Wallop; Bakers and Clerks Stage Close Game

M. E. Team Victor by 55-37 Score; Clerks Weakened by Sickness.

FIREMEN PLAY TONIGHT

By James M. Driscoll.

With a number of the Baltimore & Ohio Clerks out of the lineup last night the Fayette Bakers almost got away with a victory, losing in the last five minutes by the score of 26-19. At several periods of the game the score was tied and twice the Bakers were in the lead.

The dough kneaders scored their first basket in the first few seconds of play, J. Newcomer tossing it in. Five foul goals in a row by Penn overcame this and when the half ended the score was 10-8 for the Clerks.

In the last period Penn rang up three baskets which placed the Clerks safely in the lead. Sullivan was off form in his foul shooting last night or he might have made it interesting for the railroaders, who fouled considerably.

In the second clash the Methodists had a runaway contest with the Baptists. The former church aggregation was hitting for counts with frequency, every man on the team participating in the scoring. The final score was 55-37.

The victors made 11 field goals in each half and of the 13 fouls awarded them Henry scored 11. For a long time the Baptists were unable to score from the floor and at one time the score was 10-2 for the M. E. five. In the second half seven field goals improved the score but there was no stopping the Methodists. Thirty free attempts were given the Baptists of which various foul shooters scored 17.

The line-ups:

High School Meets Greensburg Tossers Tomorrow Evening

It appears the Connellsville basketball public is in for another thriller tomorrow evening. Either that or a comfortable victory for Connellsville. The status of the Greensburg team, coming here for the first time this season, is not exactly known. One thing certain, the outfit is not up to the standard of some of the Pittsburg quintets defeated here and this ought to give the Cokers the edge. However it will be the third game this week for the locals and the strain may slow the locals down somewhat.

THREE GAMES SCHEDULED HERE FOR TOMORROW NIGHT

There are three games in the city tomorrow evening. High School meets Greensburg at 8:15 o'clock; the Baltimore & Ohio Clerks will play the Cumberland, Md., railroad team, and the Howitzer Company will play Company C of Somerset. The last game will be played somewhat later than the others to permit the crowd to attend. The Somerset soldiers will remain here over night.

FIRE LADDIES AND CHARLEROI PLAY TONIGHT

The Connellsville Firemen meet the strong Charleroi Firemen's outfit at Slavish Hall tonight. The locals have not yet met any other firemen's organization this season and the clash is looked forward to with interest. The visitors will come here by automobile and expect to start the game about 8:30 o'clock.

The preliminary game will be between the Irish Wonders and the team of Boy Scout Troop No. 5.

The Charleroi team has won 11 games out of 12 played this season.

A "youngster" substitute or two in the Methodist line-up didn't seem to make much difference in the scoring power of the machine.

Sherrick has proven himself to be undoubtedly the best center in the "Y" League. He gets the tip on practically every one of the others. Last night he held Roberts to one basket in the first half while he scored five himself. He got a total of nine for the game.

* * * *

The attendance last night was poor. Interest sort of fell away with the beginning of the second half of the season but now that the race is once more under way supporters will begin to turn out.

* * * *

* * * *

If Connellsville "knocks off" Greensburg tomorrow evening it will certainly gladden the hearts of the squad. About seven of the first 10 men participated in the football game with Greensburg here last fall and they feel the score may be somewhat evened up by a basketball triumph.

* * * *

"Bill" McCormick saw his first high school basketball game Tuesday evening. He said it was the best exhibition of basketball he has seen in years. The game made a fan of him again.

* * * *

The Unity Fraternity anticipates scoring its third victory over Capstan tonight. The team will leave the city on the 7:30 o'clock car.

* * * *

A number of matters, including the disposition of players who are ejected from games in the City League for roughness or slugging, will be taken up by the board of control at a meeting to be held at 8 o'clock this evening in the Snyder Brothers' store in West Crawford avenue.

* * * *

The next City League games will be Monday evening at the Parochial Hall between the Casey Club and Trotter and the Legion and St. Vincents. Both should be interesting and from the form displayed by Trotter last Monday night some surprises may be in store for the Casey Club.

* * * *

The Y. M. C. A. Juniors will play a double-header tomorrow. The reserves will play most of the afternoon game against the Leisenring Panthers and in the evening the first team will meet the Howitzer Company second five in a preliminary game at the armory.

GRID BOOM FOR INDIANA

University of Indiana is planning on going into football on a bigger scale than ever before attempted when the next grid season rolls around.

Coach E. O. Stiehm will continue as head mentor and will be assisted by the largest staff ever assembled there. Every man at Indiana will be asked to come out for football and after the varsity team is selected there will be three minor squads and these will scrimmage against the regulars.

The freshman squad will be drilled in rudimentary football and not used to demonstrate opponents' styles of play to the Crimson regulars.

MAKE RULES OF 18.2 BALKLINE DIFFICULT

Time-Honored Game Too Easy for Present-Day Stars.

Suggestions Come as Result of General High Runs and Averages in Recent Championship Tourney in Chicago.

Something ought to be done to make the rules of 18.2 balkline billiards harder, according to some of the authorities on the game who attended the recent tournament in which Jake Schaeffer, Jr., of Chicago wrested the world's title from Willie Hoppe. The suggestions were made unsolicited and came as a result of the general high runs and high averages made by the seven world's best players who competed.

Although it is improbable any immediate changes will be made in the game, billiard rules, like rules in football or any other sport, may be varied to meet the requirements of competition.

The big tournament, which concluded when Schaeffer carried the title out of the Elizabethan room of the Congress hotel, was beyond doubt the greatest of history. Old-timers who knew well the playing of Jake Schaeffer, father of the new champion; Ives, Daly, Vignaux and the rest of two decades ago, declare that none of those veterans could compare with the galaxy of stars that finished the recent competition.

Years ago the elder Schaeffer advised the young Jake, when he first began to show a serious turn toward the billiard game, to be a champion or nothing. Young Jake's second successive victory over Willie Hoppe in the playoff resulted in the realization of his father's wish.

Not only were the performances of the players in the recent tournament the best of history, with Schaeffer's high average of 200, Welker Cochran's high run of 384 and Schaeffer's grand average of 55 for seven games, but the class of spectators, many of whom represented the wealthiest corporations in the country, reflected the general elevation of the billiard game with the public in recent years.

FLORIDA

The Home of Highest Quality Oranges and Grapefruit. Productive Land the Safest Of All Investments.

There is now being offered on the local market some of the finest undeveloped citrus fruit property in the State of Florida, or for that matter anywhere in the country, as it is recognized that Florida raises the best oranges and grape-fruit in America. This property is known as the Golden Groves Estates and comprises twenty thousand acres of prolific citrus land three hundred feet above the sea level, in the heart of the famous Florida Citrus Belt in Orange and Lake Counties, within a thirty minutes ride of the city of Orlando, the county seat of Orange and the largest and most prosperous inland city of the State. Lake Apopka, the second largest lake in the State lies just to the North and its waters with that of smaller adjacent lakes give priceless protection to the fruit these elevated tracts are gently sloped and easily drained by nature's processes and there is no damp, rotten, spongy land. The property is being sold principally in five acre tracts and the price includes clearing, fencing, planting of young trees, cultivating, spraying, pruning, fertilizing, etc., for a period of four years and if desired thereafter the development company offers to continue looking after the groves at a small percentage above actual cost, making the owners personal attention or residence there unnecessary. Marketing facilities will be the best. A moderate initial payment and small monthly payments for a few years thereafter will assure the investor a life income of from $2,500 to $5,000 a year, or more, from a five acre tract. The Francis McCarty Land Company is now running bi-weekly excursions from Chicago, Pittsburg and other cities to afford interested prospective buyers an opportunity at small expense to actually visit and inspect the property and other means are offered to insure buyers against risk of loss or misunderstanding. BACKFIELD MEN MEET FAVOR

Line players outnumber backfield men by a ratio of seven to four, yet no such ratio exists in the selection of captains for the season of 1922.

Halfback Gilroy will captain Princeton. Quarterback Buell will lead Harvard and Halfback Jordan will be in charge at Yale next season. The leaders of the "big three" are all backfield men.

Of the fifty colleges who have elected captains for 1922, twenty-one are backfield players and twenty-nine are linemen.

CHAPTER IX

In spite of the weight of apprehension that pressed upon the Silent City, Polly's soul insisted on singing with gladness. She found opportunity even in the midst of her busy hours to live over and over the adventures of that evening in the Robertson house. When she remembered how Robert had held her in his arms her happiness made her almost faint.

She allowed Jerry's gingham blouse to fall neglected in her lap as in imagination she dwelt on every incident of her visit. She recalled the thrilling tenderness in Robert's words and her face grew soft in delightful revery.

A sound at the door brought her thoughts back and she glanced up startled. Unnoticed the blouse dropped to the floor as Evelyn Robertson came in. Embarrassed and in silence, Pollyop arose and offered her a chair.

"You ain't feeling well, I bet," she burst out, wiping the dust from the rope seat of the rocker with her skirt. "You look white like the moon does before a rain. Go on an' sit down!"

Sinking back, Evelyn looked steadily up at her. Then she caught at the hand resting on her shoulder.

"Pollyop, I've come to you because you're the only friend I have," she exclaimed, tears misting her eyes.

"I'm awful glad you come to me," Polly breathed softly. "You want me to run to Oscar again? I can't stand the sight of that duffer, but I'll go just the same. Have you got a letter?"

Wiping her eyes, Evelyn shook her head.

"No, but Oscar wants to see you," she replied. She paused and studied the girl. "Polly," she continued,

"I'm Awful Glad You Come to Me," Polly Breathed Softly

"don't you want to do something for—or your people? There's a way, Pollyop, that you can—"

Impulsively Polly could not wait.

Evelyn nodded.

"Yes, every one in the settlement."

A brilliant smile lit up Pollyop's countenance.

"I'd give inches out of my hide to do that!" she declared. "Go on an' say it to me."

"Then sit down, dear," entreated Evelyn, "and don't stare at me so."

To have saved her life Pollyop could not drag her eyes away, but obediently she sat down on the floor. Evelyn fidgeted under the searching, honest gaze.

"You know, Polly," she stammered, "how it is between Mr. MacKenzie and me. I can make him do anything I say. Oh, if I were free from Oscar Bennett!"

"Then you could marry Old Mac, huh?" Polly interposed with a bob of the chestnut curls, "an' boss him, I bet."

"Something like that, Polly," Evelyn admitted. "That's why I've come to you. When I'm free I can make Mr. MacKenzie let up on your people."

Anxiously weighing every word, Polly's quick mind ran on ahead.

"An' to do that," she threw in, "you got to get shut of Oscar! I don't blame you for wantin' to, but how be you goin' to work it, Miss Eve? I can't see no help for the squatters if you marry in Old Mac's part of it."

"That's what I'm trying to tell you, Polly," was the quick retort, "but I want your promise. You help me and I'll help you and your people. Oscar says he'll free me if—if—you'll marry him."

For an instant Polly's head whirled as if it had been suddenly struck, and over her came a weight almost unbearable. Then slowly she shook her curly head.

"I couldn't do that, ma'am," she choked. "I just couldn't."

"But you said you would," retorted Evelyn sharply. "You must. I can save the squatters, and I will, but only on condition that you help me get rid of Oscar Bennett. Mr. MacKenzie is going to buy the Bennett farm and—"

"An' Oscar'll be goin' away somewheres else?" put in Polly. "Is that it? He'd take me away from Daddy Hopkins an' from—"

She caught herself just in time. She had it on the tip of her tongue to add the name of Robert Percival, but of course she did not.

"I couldn't ever do that," she ended. "Never, never!"

The blue eyes looked into the brown eyes seriously.

"Oh, yes, you can," insisted Mrs. Robertson. "Oscar's not the worst in the world, and he'll have a lot of money when he leaves Ithaca. He loves you, Pollyop, and he'd make life easy and pleasant for you."

A thoughtful moment or two passed while Polly Hopkins gazed at her hands locked together in her lap.

"You can't tell me nothin' about Oscar," she remarked at length. "I know the dirty duffer, an' I don't know nothin' good about him you can lick your boots on, but—" She paused while through the open doorway her eyes were fixed upon a fleecy cloud high up in the deep blue sky. "But that don't make no difference," she continued. "If I linked up with Oscar, would that pup Old Mac let the squatters stay in the Silent City?"

"Why, Polly, dear, of course he will. I talked with Oscar last night, and I'll speak to Mr. MacKenzie just as soon as you promise to do what Oscar wants."

Again the smiling face of Robert Percival cut across Polly Hopkins' mental vision, and through the silence of the shanty she heard his voice—deep, low and like music. Then the evil face of Bennett wormed itself into her mind. Her lids drooped and she shuddered.

"I couldn't do it, ma'am," she wailed. "I just couldn't do that!"

Evelyn arose and stood over her.

"You must, Polly," she asserted again. "Good heavens! it's the chance of your life. Of course you'll do it, Polly Hopkins. Take a little time to think it over. I'll bring Oscar to see you some day when Mr. MacKenzie and my cousin Robert are away."

At the sound of that beloved name Polly's head fell forward.

After Evelyn had gone Polly mechanically resumed her sewing. It seemed that her heart's joy had wholly died within her. Patiently she tried to turn her attention to the work in her hands, but again she caught herself sitting with idle fingers.

Finally, worried by the conflicting emotions that were crowding in upon her, Polly flung herself into the open and ran swiftly along the ragged rocks to a little glen where many a time she had been before. Here she waded through the brook and sank down beside it. Mind picture after mind picture passed before her. She saw Daddy Hopkins happy with Jerry in the shanty, no longer afraid to fish and hunt. Then she visioned the Silent City safe at last, and saved by her. Her head sank into her hands, and sobs racked her slender body.

But it was not long before she sat up and tossed back her curls. It seemed as if she had heard a voice. She turned her head slowly, and lo! Robert Percival was standing across the creek smiling at her.

"I've found you, Polly Hopkins," he called, and springing across the water he added, "You ran so fast I lost you at the corner of the ragged rocks, and it's taken me all this time to find you."

He sat down beside her and took her hands, but Polly could not look up at him. Embarrassed beyond measure, she watched her fingers letting them fall listlessly. Robert laughed. Her lovely face, first white, then scarlet, only told him that she was glad to see him, and spoke of girlish innocence dear to all men.

"You went away so suddenly the other night," he went on. "I didn't have a chance to say half I wanted to. I had something for you, too, but couldn't get away until today to bring it down."

He pulled a little roll of paper from his pocket and handed it to her. Wonderingly she opened it, and there was an exact replica of one of the Great Mothers in the World.

Polly was so overcome she remained silent.

"Don't you like it, little Pollyop?" queried Robert, putting his fingers under her chin and raising her face to his.

"Ay[illegible]"

MRS. ANNA L. HUGHES.

Mrs. Anna L. Hughes, 22 West Elm St., Chicago, an artist who enjoys a wide and enviable reputation for skill in china painting, in relating the facts of her remarkable experience with Tanlac says:

"I haven't enjoyed such good health or felt so well in many ways in years as I do now. Before I took Tanlac I was so run down that half an hour at my work would tire me completely out, and I was actually so nervous at work that at times the brush would fall from my hands and I would have to quit work for the rest of the day. Every night I would lie awake for hours miserable and nervous.

"My improvement after the first few doses of Tanlac was rapid and constant. I'm happy to say I'm well and strong now and feel better than in twenty years. Tanlac deserves every word of praise I can give it."

MYSTERY OF MOUNT EVEREST

Finding by Explorers of Imprint of Human Feet on Mountain Given Various Explanations.

The progress of the Royal Geographical society's expedition to Mount Everest, under the leadership of Col. Howard Bury, was watched with keen interest by scientists, especially at the Natural History museum, South Kensington, to which the spoils were to have been brought for study and classification on the return of the party.

One statement in a dispatch received from Colonel Bury excited special curiosity, and it is hoped that this will be satisfied by further discoveries in the course of the expedition.

"Even at these heights (more than 20,000 feet)," writes Colonel Bury, "there were curious tracks in the snow. We distinguished hare and fox tracks; but one mark, like that of a human foot, was most puzzling. The coolies assured me that it was the track of a wild, hairy man, and that these men were occasionally to be found in the wildest and most inaccessible mountains."

Naturalists here are by no means prepared to scout the idea of a human race living at such an altitude. The probability is, however, that the supposed "wild, hairy man," is in reality a baboon, known as a Macaque, which is known to live at great heights on the Himalayas, and the footprint would be very similar to the human foot.

Resident Has Awful Experience

"I was twice confined in hospitals, in the last one nothing but gruel water was injected into me four times a day, as my stomach would not retain any food. I suffered terribly; was reduced to a skeleton. My folks saw an ad of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and it has surely saved my life. I weigh 180 pounds now." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.—Advertisement.

Camera in Surgical Operations.

At the Theatres

THE SOISSON.

One of the most spectacular flashes in "Flower of the North," at the Soisson Theatre today and Saturday, shows a lighted signal fire which Pauline Starke, as Jeanne, kindles to start a tribe of Indians on the warpath. This fire was kindled on the highest peak of a range of mountains of northern Oregon at midnight, and its flames shot hundreds of feet into the air and were visible for many miles. The flame resembled a huge giant beckoning from the mountain top. Several cameras were placed to catch the spectacular blaze from various angles so as to record it in all its spectacular beauty. "Flower of the North" is based upon James Oliver Curwood's famous novel by the same name. It deals with the land "north of 53" in the summer time. It is replete with thrills, adventure and a strong love interest. An all-star cast headed by Henry B. Walthall and Pauline Starke was engaged for the production.

THE PARAMOUNT.

Bristling with dramatic incident, sparkling with delightful humor and rich in romance and adventure, "The Duke of Chimney Butte," in which Fred Stone will appear at the Paramount Theatre today and Saturday, is a typical Fred Stone vehicle. Fred Stone has built his tremendous reputation as the greatest entertainer in the world upon a foundation of cleanliness. He will tolerate no suggestive saying or idea in any of his musical productions. The result is that his personal following far surpasses that of any other artist in the country. In "The Duke of Chimney Butte," Fred Stone has a role to which he can give the full scope of his extraordinary talents. He displays his remarkable horsemanship, his skill at shooting and roping and at the same time does some mighty clever acting. The narrative is from the pen of George Washington Ogden and was directed by Frank Borzage, whose supervision of the making of "Humoresque" established him in the very front rank of screen directors.

THE ORPHEUM.

Prisoners in Sing Sing prison who saw certain scenes of Thomas Meighan's latest Paramount picture, "The City of Silent Men," filmed, admit that Mr Meighan's "escape" from prison was novel and entertaining. "The City of Silent Men" is being shown at the Orpheum today and tomorrow. Mr. Meighan, as the hero of the story, is sent to prison on circumstantial evidence and after serving several years he makes his escape. The fugitive secreted himself in a packing box, was nailed up inside and rode out on a four-horse truck through the famous "South Gate" of the prison. He took the same route that Thomas Murray, a daring crook took when he escaped jail, nailed up in a laundry box, on May 27, 1887. Imprisoned old-timers smiled as they looked on. They found the scene interesting and instructive. Warden Lewis E. Lawes permitted Director Forman to stage the scene at Sing Sing, but was extra cautious to see that no genuine convict was tempted to depart with the players.

"LES MISERABLES" COMING.

"Les Miserables," a motion picture in 20 reels, will be shown at the First Baptist Church under the auspices of the Baraca Class. Ten reels will be shown Monday, February 20 and 10 reels Monday, February 27. This great masterpiece of Victor Hugo needs no introduction. It is known and enjoyed the world over. Suffice it to say, therefore, that the film production is likewise a masterpiece which holds the spectators interested throughout the entire 20 reels. There is no one who will not wish to see this dramatic tale, interpreted by the elite of the artists of Paris. Every institution, every parent, will have an interest in seeing and causing the children to see, this admirable lesson in heroism and of kindliness.
